
Spring commissions

The clocks have gone forward in the USA, and the UK will catch up in 2 weeks. The snow has gone in Parkdale, and the sun is shining in Maynard KY. Time to open the windows and let the fresh air inside. If you have ceiling fans, let them spin!

And if you have been thinking about bringing your own AR idea to life, now is the time to get in touch because I'm open for commission.

Email commissions@sebtomato.com with your story idea, whether it's just a few lines or something more detailed, and I will let you know (a) if that's something I can write for you and (b) timing and pricing. If you're happy to go forward, we'll agree the best story for you, and I'll get to work!

Thanks for reading and have a great spring :)

Your trailers pictures are always so well selected, Sebtomato. :]

By the way, your story "Baby of the family" is still nowhere to be found on your website, you know? ^^

So, you will put back the missing story? :P

I don't see it as missing, more waiting for a place to fit.

It indeed doesn't fit with any others story of yours.

Truly, the solution would be to make more of that neat misinterpreting wish theme as to create a whole new place for it to fit in. :P

if that domain name wasn't already taken, I'd snap it up.

? There's something preventing you for making a sub-section called "misinterpreted/ misfired/etc wishes?"

tell you what - if someone commissions a story along those lines, so I write a second one, then I'll give both such tales a home on sebtomato.com

Would be great. :D

I don't think I'm going to be that commissioner, though, as I've started writing myself quite a lot these days. ^^

By the way, would you mind if I reused that fairy wand device in some short story of mine? :]
